AUTHORS OF ARTICLES IN THIS ISSUE

ELLSWORTH C. ALVORD, who contributes to this issue the article entitled "The undistributed-profits tax and stock dividends and stock rights," is an attorney-at-law of Washington, D. C., and has long been regarded as an authority in the field of tax law. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1917 with the A.B. degree, and in 1921 received the LL.B. degree from Columbia University. He is a member of the bar of New York, the District of Columbia, the United States Supreme Court, and various Federal courts. From 1921 to 1926 he was assistant legislative counsel to the United States Senate and House of Representatives. From 1926 to 1930 he was special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury. Since 1930, Mr. Alvord has been in private practice. He is a member of the committee on Federal finance of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and a member of the tax committee of the American Mining Congress. His papers and addresses on Federal finance and taxation have attracted much attention among certified public accountants.

JOHN L. HARVEY, author of the article entitled "Some observations on accounting practice with special reference to inventory valuation," is a partner in the firm of Hurdman & Cranstoun, New York, and a member of the American Institute of Accountants. Mr. Harvey attended New York University, where he was graduated from the school of commerce, accounts and finance. He entered the accounting field as a junior accountant in the employ of Frederick H. Hurdman in 1913, and subsequently served as a senior accountant on the staff of Hurdman & Cranstoun. In 1927 he became a partner in the firm. Mr. Harvey is a certified public accountant of New York.

GEORGE O. MAY, who this month discusses, under the title "Principles of accounting," an essay by Gilbert R. Byrne published in the November issue, has been a frequent contributor to THE JOURNAL OF ACCOUNTANCY. He is a certified public accountant and a member of the American Institute of Accountants, and is senior partner in the firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., New York.

NORMAN L. McLAREN, whose paper on "The influence of Federal taxation upon accountancy," delivered at the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the American Institute of Accountants, is published in this issue, is a former chairman of the Institute's committee on Federal taxation. He is a graduate of the University of California, where he received the B.A. degree, and is a certified public accountant of the state of California. Mr. McLaren is engaged in practice in San Francisco. He has served as president of the California State Society of Certified Public Accountants and as vice-president of the American Institute of Accountants. His technical papers on accounting subjects are widely known.
